LIONS' ENTERTAINMENT

It was Ladies' Night in the Lions Club Thursday last, also the occasion of the visit of the Provincial Governor W. Wallace of Edmonton, and Mr. Beveridge, President of the Calgary Club, with about sixteen other guests from Calgary including Rev. and Mrs. Leslie Pearson.

The usual appetizing supper was served by the Hansens and the tables with the broad bands of purple and gold and sprays of gold and russet mums looked very attractive.

In the absence of President Walter Mercer Rev. S. R. Hunt ably filled the chair. Grace was said by Rev. Hoad, and The King honored. The Lions are noted for leaving "dull care aside" and a merry time prevailed.

Mrs. Walter Mercer was in excellent voice in her solo and encore "The Little Damselle" and "The Big Brown Bear", accompanied by Miss Gerry Van Tighem.

Community Singing and an exceptionally good chorus of male voices led by Mr. Wilson of Calgary was much enjoyed.

A very interesting address by Provincial Governor Wallace held the interest of all. Mr. Wallace had attended the International Convention held in Toronto in June at which 11 countries were represented — and all Lions Clubs are living up to their Motto of Service.

It is a strange coincidence that there are no Lions Clubs in the Axis countries.

Coming to Strathmore Governor Wallace was delighted to find the local club had been exceedingly active in their four years, the following worthy work being sponsored by them.

Entertained Canvassers for War Services and Victory Loan Drives. Sent cigarettes overseas.

Arranged Auction Sale and Sports Day in aid of the Red Cross.

Sponsored candidate for Carnival Queen.

Conducted Victory Certificate Campaign.

Sponsored dance for Red Cross. Held Patriotic Meetings, and many other worthwhile activities.

An interesting innovation was the presentation by District Governor Wallace of a very artistically designed Honor Roll, bearing the names of Lions who are now on active service. Chairman S. R. Hunt accepted the Honor Roll on behalf of the Strathmore Club. This was passed for all to see.

The names inscribed thereon are, Leonard Van Tighem, Gaylon Robison, Arthur Lambert, Charles MacLean, T. S. Hughes, Ralph Martin.

A humorous reading "Soap" by Mrs. Mercer was well received.

The toast to the ladies was given in humorous vein by T. E. Wright and responded to by Rev. L. Pearson in a very merry manner.

As a tribute of appreciation to the efficient help given by Lion Leslie Pearson during his term of membership in Strathmore, Lion Dr. John Giffen presented Rev. Pearson with a very fine white silk broadcloth shirt with three initialed handkerchiefs in the same material. Mr. Pearson was deeply appreciative of the lovely gift. God Save the King was sung, the table removed and a short informal dance followed.

OBITUARIES

THE DEATH OF MRS. SAMUEL RICHARDSON

Mrs. Luella Richardson, 75, of Strathmore, died Thursday in a Calgary hospital following a lengthy illness.

Born in Sebelia, Missouri, she had lived in Strathmore 35 years.

She is survived by her husband, Samuel, Strathmore; two daughters, Marie, Calgary, and Mrs. C. A. Bell, New York; three sisters, Mrs. A. Carter and Mrs. M. Christian, both of Sebelia, Mrs. H. Hopkins, Kansas City, Missouri; four brothers, Ernest and Warren Smith, Sebelia, Pte. George Smith, overseas, Jasper Smith, California, Missouri and one grandson.

Funeral services were held Saturday November 21st at 2:30 p.m. at the United Church, Strathmore. Rev. S. R. Hunt officiating.

The Pall bearers were T. Schulte, J. Harwood, H. Groves, A. Rellingier, M. B. Garrett and W. Ashley.

Arrangements were in charge of Chase Funeral Home with McInnis & Holloway.

There are about five miles of blood vessels in every pound of fat in the human body.

School Fair 1942

The parents and friends of the pupils who went to see the Exhibition of School Work which covered the walls and long table in the Memorial Hall Friday and Saturday were delighted with the variety and general excellence of the work, and were thoroughly convinced of the real benefit of School Fair Exhibitions not only for the pupils in whom they must create an incentive to do their very best, but perhaps even more so for the parents, who can thus become cognizant of the variety of work which now forms a part of the school programme.

The variety of Art Work was a revelation and the high quality of much of the work was most praiseworthy from the beginners in Grade 1 to the senior classes.

There were also some excellent exhibits in the Enterprise method of making maps from flour, salt, etc. and a unique portrayal of native coloring in two made by Japanese students, who exemplified their national love for bright colors in using the lighter pastel shadings. It was an interesting side study in National characteristics.

Health Books well printed giving a short sketch of the inventor of cures for certain diseases with an accompanying story, proved the personal understanding a pupil must derive from such methods. Pasteur, Madame Curie, Banting, were some of the subjects studied.

Maps, Compositions, Manual work, collection of minerals, various types of dwellings, all formed a part of a most interesting exhibition.

The sewing and cooking exhibits were much smaller than the vegetables and owing to the cold weather prevailing, no stock was shown.

The judges, Messrs. M. MacLeod and George Willson had a very difficult task and their decision met with general approval.

Mr. G. Willson former supervisor of Wheatland S. D. said this was the best Exhibition of School work he had ever seen in any place.

Cliffside grottoes that protected early Christians still exist in the vicinity of Sevastopol.

PARCELS FOR PRISONERS OF WAR

Quarterly parcels from next of kin to prisoners of war, may contain both khaki and blue shirts, also boiler suits and overalls, in addition to types of underwear, knitted comforts and other articles, which have previously been sent. Each parcel may also include chocolate bars, not, however, exceeding two pounds in weight in each parcel. All such parcels are carried by the Canadian Post Offices.

WISE COUNSEL

Might I give counsel to any young bearer, I would say to him: Try to frequent the company of your betters. In books and life is the most wholesome society; learn to admire rightly; the great pleasure of life is that. Note what the great men admire—they admire great things; narrow spirits admire basely and worship meanly. —Thackeray.

QUITE IMPOSSIBLE

Sir Stafford Cripps is credited with saying in an interview that the key to the whole crisis in India is found in Gandhi's adherence to a policy of non-violence. An Indian government that was pledged to pacifism, and might even make peace with the Axis, could not be countenanced by Britain while she is waging a life-and-death struggle.

THE 'OUT-SIDE'

WHO CAN COMPETE?

November 14, 1912
An attempt was made in English prisons to start a prison newspaper but failed. The reason being so few newspapermen and printers imprisoned.

● Edmonton patrol has a record that is unsurpassed on the continent. It has reported. Since the patrols were inaugurated four years ago, there has not been a motor car accident involving a school child travelling to or from school.

To Constable W. Crawford, of the Edmonton city police has gone much credit for efficiency of the patrol system in the capital city.

The youths when acting as patrols and guiding groups of children across street intersections near schools, wear an A. M. A. sash. They show extreme diligence in carrying out their duties and look after the younger children with great care.

THE PRAIRIES AND THE MEDITERRANEAN

Should the present operations in the Mediterranean end in opening up that sea to Allied convoys and so end in putting the whole North Africa under the command of the Allies, great benefits would accrue to our prairie farmers. In the first place the merchant shipping saved would be equal to several million tons, and the Allied control of the Mediterranean would permit large quantities of this shipping to be used for the transporting of much needed wheat and other foodstuffs from Canada and the United States to Spain, Portugal, and particularly to Russia which latter country alone is badly in need of several hundred million bushels of wheat and other grains. It would not be long, perhaps, before Italy, Greece Albania and Yugoslavia might come under Allied control. The people of these countries at once would need large quantities of foodstuffs.

All in all, then, it will be a great day not only for the Allies, but also for our prairie farmers when the Mediterranean sea is once again open to us.

● Dr. Robert Newton, president of the University of Alberta says that the weed menace on Alberta farms deserves immediate attention and something should be done while the problem is of measurable proportions.

Local Ration Board Complete And Approved

Approval for the local rationing board has been received from Ottawa, the district to be known as A-13.

The administration of the local ration board, under jurisdiction of the War Time Prices and Trades Board, will be carried over a large area. The board office is located in Strathmore with members in Rockyford, Standard, Gleichen, Carleton Place, Strathmore, Nightingale and the Blackfoot Indian Reserve.

The policy of the War Time Prices and Trades Board in the establishment of 500 local ration boards throughout Canada, has been to facilitate the problems of rationing by having the local problems handled by members well acquainted with the needs in their respective communities.

For Strathmore and districts the members of the local ration board, as approved by Mr. Donald Gordon Chairman, War Time Prices and Trades Board, Ottawa, will include Mayor J. R. Cannon Chairman, J. Riddick Secretary, with Mrs. H. Willson, Strathmore, Mrs. C. Kimmitt, Nightingale, G. H. Gooderham, Department of Indian Affairs, Gleichen, W. E. Thompson, Secretary-Treasurer, M. D. of Blackfoot and Mayor of Gleichen, P. W. Slater, C. P. R. employee, Carleton Place, Dr. J. W. Giffen, Physician, Strathmore, T. L. Halpin, Manager Canadian Bank of Commerce and Mayor, Rockyford, G. H. Patrick, Canal Sup't, C. P. R. Strathmore, and Anthony M. Rasmussen, Notary and Lunger Dealer, Standard.

Miss Carruthers At St. Michael's Church

On Friday afternoon Miss Ruth Carruthers, the Field Secretary of the Women's Auxiliary addressed the members of St. Michael's W. A. and their friends. She spoke of the work which is being done in China, where she has worked as one of the M. S. C. C. missionaries. Vast opportunities are coming to the Christian Church now in what she termed "the no man's land" some fifty thousand converts being gained in this territory alone since the outbreak of the war. One thing was noticeably lacking in the Chinese that was the spirit of revenge against the Japanese, they would not be satisfied until the Japanese had been driven from their shores but there was no thought of revenge on that island Empire.

She dealt briefly with the things which the Christian Church has brought to the Chinese, The Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Hospitals and medical attention and the school and Universities. Many of the people of these Christian Schools are now students in those universities which have moved out before the Japanese invasion and are in Western China around Chungking. She asked the members for their prayers for this great work, not only that we should pray for this work but that we in the homeland should set the example of a Christian nation, as the oriental coming to our country is rather surprised at the lightness with which we take and practise our beliefs.

HONEY HOMELY

—BY A SKY PILOT—

THE ROAD BACK—

Several times I found George, my back-door neighbor, lying on the ground gasping for breath. Gassed and wounded in the last war and when he came to middle life his weakened system broke under the strain of supporting his fine family of six children.

The doctor, also a veteran who had lost a limb, helped to secure a raise in his pension from 20 per cent to 70 per cent. Inadequate pension allowance had caused George to work beyond the endurance point of his damaged physical resources. Today three of his fine sons are serving their country in this war.

John, a partial wreck of another type, told me at the time he asked me to straighten out a little difficulty between him and a government official with whom he had quarrelled; "I lay for 28 hours in no-man's land in cold November weather in France. Helpless, wounded and gassed with shells screaming all round me. It was an eternity in hell. I've never been sure of myself since then and fly off the handle when I shouldn't." John worked well and hard at lone-wolf jobs, though his wrecked mental and nervous resources were a factor in his broken home. His boy is in the Navy.

Joe was another type—a hard and tireless worker; good companion when sober, but he frequently "broke loose" and then anything could happen. He usually managed to escape entanglements with the law.

I discovered that these three men prior to enlistment in the last War were all notably good citizens with fine, strong christian characters. Confidentially they told me that no man can come back from actual war, or war-training with the same outlook upon life, nor any strong convictions about the 'sacredness of life.' Before he died Dick said to me one day: "When people talk about the sacredness of life I don't understand them any more. In the army we were told that God wanted us to kill and that killing our enemies was a sacred christian duty. How can life be sacred when it can ever be a sacred duty to kill?"

What answer could I make? When these men returned from France they found an altogether different kind of world than they had fought for. They did their whole duty and did it well. We could not go and I often asked myself—Did we do our whole duty to help to re-establish them?

Disabled men are on the road back to us now from the present war. How about them? Have we made adequate preparations for them? Provided adequate medical, surgical and hospital care? What organizations are responsible for them that can do adequate work in salvaging this heroic and valuable human wreckage that will presently sweep back to us like a tidal wave? Should we be satisfied to dismiss them from further care as soon as they are able to walk on their feet once more?

To go through a soldier's hospital and visit the amount of suffering and helplessness left us from the last war is both an education and a revelation. This time they should be even better cared for than the last time.

Mental and nervous cases. With the greater knowledge obtained in that field we should be able to deal more promptly and more efficiently in the matter of their restoration. Many will be restored to an almost normal condition of mental and nervous health if we take the task as seriously as we should. But that will include much follow-up care. But to date I have seen or heard of no definite plan to deal with this problem which will presently be upon us. These men, whatever their condition, are but the victims of civilizations greatest crime and folly committed against the present generation.

There will surely be a very large number of moral and spiritual casualties in this war. Who is going to look after them? These will form a very real challenge to our Churches and their members. What we might look for is indicated already.

A Canadian Correspondent to the Christian Century writes—"A Chaplain who ministers to over 1,000 men of the Imperial air force said that at attendance at services is voluntary and the average attendance is 12. This chaplain is a man of outstanding ability. Attendance of Canadian air force men according to their chaplains is on the same level."

These men are saying by their neglect of Christian worship—"We are not interested in your christian message, nor ideals, nor the christian Church." War always has a paganizing influence upon the combatant nations. We certainly did not succeed after the last war in re-establishing their life of faith nor in rehabilitating them into Church Life. The road back for these men was a road in which faith played only a very small, if any part, in their lives.

Some of these men have confidentially confessed to me that the christian message sounds hollow and the exhortation to love one another seemed like hypocrisy in a generation that sent them out to kill with the benediction of the christian church resting upon them. This is the challenge for today.

In an institution in Prague transformations amounting to miracles have been wrought in the lives of crippled and handicapped children, by enriching their lives and beautifying them with spiritual graces. Latent talents developed and that sense of frustration removed which usually handicaps such cases and did such evil work among many returned men after the last war.

Nothing, however costly it may prove to be, must be left undone to help our men on their "road back into civilian life" this time. The road back is much more difficult than the road out has been, but we must face and put into practice our christian faith and ideals for which they are fighting. That worst of all sins, neglect and ingratitude must not be allowed to hold sway this time. The Christian Gospel is a message of salvation and salvation always includes the processes of restoration and redemption.

The Bomber Press In Great Britain

Another in a series of articles written by W. R. Legge and C. V. Charters, who represented the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in a recent tour overseas.

INFANTRY, TANKS, GUNS GREAT DEMONSTRATION

Canada's Senior Infantry Brigade go into mock action against heavily defended positions.

Midst a setting of rare photographic value, but under a sullen overcast sky with a gale blowing, your correspondent, under a veritable hail of fire, bullets, shells, mortar bombs and smoke bombs, witnessed a great demonstration of a Canadian Infantry Brigade, with supporting arms, going in to the attack to clear a passage for the remainder of the Division to go through.

The Infantry regiments of this Brigade are three well known to residents of Ontario. This was the Brigade that in June 1940 went to France, but due to conditions that prevailed there at that time were ordered to withdraw without taking part in any engagements with the enemy. These were your boys or your neighbors. They came from London, Stratford, Orangeville, Brampton, Oakville, Belleville, Picton, Napanee, Oshawa, Toronto, Weston and various other Ontario towns so familiar to us all. For the past three years these lads have been training and training hard for what lays before them. And despite the boredom of waiting, waiting, waiting, and the natural longing to be with their loved ones once again, these men have steeled themselves for what is to come and are prepared to meet the enemy on any ground.

MANY ARMS TAKE PART

The infantry were supported in their task by the entire Divisional Artillery, a Tank Battalion, a section of Engineers, two Companies of Machine Gunners, an Anti-Tank Regiment, and in theory, a squadron of the R. C. A. F.

Three strongly held positions of great tactical value gave the enemy the advantage in this magnificent show of endurance and skill by the Canadian Troops. Despite very heavy going, due to the recent rains and the condition of the ground, and the fact that several large hills had to be surmounted, the infantry (the P. B. I. as they were called in the last war) successfully gained their objectives and moved forward at the appointed times. One has to take a small part (even as a spectator moving over the ground) in these manoeuvres, to appreciate just what amount of stamina and spirit is required to overcome natural and man-made hazards.

CO-ORDINATED EFFORT

The efficiency and co-ordination of all arms was remarkably good. Intercommunication with the various units was of a high calibre. Companies of the Infantry being in constant communication with their battalion headquarters and the battalion headquarters in turn being in communication with the Brigade Headquarters who controlled the whole effort. From brigade headquarters via various means, the supporting arms were directed by the Brigadier.

Directly on the stroke of the zero hour, the Artillery opened up a terrific barrage on the initial objective, to allow a troop of tanks to shepherd the mine clearance party of Engineers, in two sections of carriers to carry out their task of clearing the mine fields for the follow-up of tanks and infantry.

CHURCHILLS IN ACTION

It was a grand sight to witness from our vantage point. The huge rumbling Churchills sprayed everything in front of them to give cover to the engineer party. The job completed, the engineers placed tapes to make a safety lane for the following tanks and infantry. Then they returned to a rear position under the protective care of the tanks. By now the next wave of tanks (which in the distance looked like ants crawling about) were proceeding at tank speed on to their objectives, to clear out machine gun nests and any infantry obstacles that might be in the way. They manoeuvred a bout, racing thither and yon, until they reached the crest of the first objective,

Right on their heels were the first wave of infantry, with bayonets fixed, running towards the enemy and taking cover as the necessity arose, then rising and advancing several yards.

INFANTRY PLAYS ITS PART

During this advance of the infantry, the mortars came into play, setting down the smoke screens to give the infantry and tanks protective cover from the left flank and to the front, while the R. C. A. F. were doing likewise on the right flank. While the forward battalion of infantry were consolidating their first objective, the two battalions following through pivoted right and left to reach their respective objectives and so widen the gap created by the forward unit. During this time, the various arms of the infantry were brought into use. Bren carriers and mortar platoons doing a very effective job with the odd pill-box or machine gun nest that had been overlooked by the tanks, the mortars effectively using H. E. and smoke and the carriers doing a nice job of work with their bren guns.

The entire co-ordination was particularly good, but the enthusiasm and knowledge of their task, shown by the infantry, was a revelation to this writer, and to all those privileged to witness this attack of Canada's Senior Infantry Brigade.

WINTER IS THE TIME TO REPAIR MACHINERY

Successful farmers plan their winter's work as well as their summer activities. Many of them have determined by now what they will do this winter. One job that will be sure to be on their agenda is to overhaul their machinery.

Almost every machine on the farm should be given a complete check-over each year. This requires examination for broken parts, missing bolts, sprung axles, and other evidences of injury that have been received during the working season. Bearings and boxings should be examined and replaced or babbled where wear has been excessive.

Over-hauling of machinery always is important but at this time it is especially so because of the difficulty of securing new machines and new parts. If the new parts required are determined soon they can be secured before the machine is required for use. Perhaps one of the most important winter jobs is to carefully examine and repair all machinery. A stitch in time in this regard not only saves nine but it may remove the necessity for long and expensive delays in waiting for parts when a break down occurs during the busy season.

HIS MAJESTY'S SHIPS

WHEN you recall the thousands of troops that have been conveyed from one country to another in the past 3-1/2 years without the loss of one troop ship something of the efficiency and watchfulness of the Navy should forcibly impress everyone of the power of this mighty force. Added to this are millions of tons of shipping of foods, clothing, mail, munitions and merchandise of all kinds it should not be necessary to more than suggest the need for contributions.

THE CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION

IN Winnipeg, Dec. 8, 9, and 10 the Conservative Convention will be held, the purpose of which is to select a Party Leader and decide on a Policy. It is likely men of varying political creeds will be present.

The party is at present at very low ebb. The Party is at the Crossroads. If they choose a right leader and form progressive policy the Party has a magnificent opportunity to go forward to "big things."

Falling this — "There is a tide in the affairs of men" applies to groups as well as individuals.

We quote the following from MacLean's Magazine

If the motivating spirit of the convention should be the partisan one of devising political expedients with which to knock out the present government and attain party power, the Conservative Party is doomed to extinction.

On the other hand, if a leader can be found who will free the party from old die-hard Tory ties; a leader who will give strong, vigorous constructive criticism when events demand it at the same time supporting everything effectively designed to the furthering of our war effort; a leader who can convince the people that he is more concerned with winning the war than with winning political preferment; a leader who in the event of a new government being formed could bring his support the best of the nation's talent — then the Conservative Party, by that or any other name, may play an important role in the life of this nation at war and in the period of rehabilitation to follow.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

IF you want a child to be successful in life, give him splendid health, sanity of vision, capacity for work, and a wholesome attitude toward life. This is true education, a joint partnership of the home, school, and community, a training not of mind alone, but of every activity of the child. To realize this ideal there must be co-operation of the home, school and community, and to meet this need no organization is better adapted than the Home and School Association.

A programme of its activities will indicate a long-range view toward —
1. Co-operation of Teachers and Parents for the benefit of the child.
2. A study of the progress in Education
3. A widened interest in Child Welfare.
4. An improved Environment.

A PEOPLE'S CHARTER

PREMIER Bracken of Manitoba recently announced a fourteen point objective for the postwar period. He recommended this as a proposed "People's Charter," which would make some of the pronouncements of the Atlantic Charter a reality. The Atlantic Charter will remain merely a hope of two leaders unless it is translated into something which the people of every land can endorse, work toward and live up to.

Mr Bracken's proposed "People's Charter" starts with the national life, and embraces world objectives.

- 1— The right of every man to have a job.
- 2— The right of every man to a fair day's pay for a fair day's work.
- 3— The right of every man to be rewarded on a basis of the service he gives.
- 4— The right of farmers to a fair share of the nation's income.
- 5— The right of public and private enterprise to a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.
- 6— The right of private enterprise to a fair return on the investment it risks.
- 7— The right of every child and youth to equality of opportunity in state education.
- 8— The right of every citizen for security against loss of income from accident, loss of job, old age or other disability.
- 9— The right of provinces in depressed areas to rationalization of Dominion-provincial relations.
- 10— If these objectives are desired by the public then there should be a general recognition by the public of the right of the state to exact wise taxes to obtain the necessary revenue.
- 11— The right of the public to expect of the government an efficient administration of the funds entrusted to it.
- 12— The right of future generations to a world of plenty.
- 13— The right of future generations to a world of peace.
- 14— The right of all people to expect of their leaders a determination to remove barriers of world trade, and the right of public men to support in removing trade barriers.

These proposals outlined by Mr. Bracken are understandable and within possibility of fulfillment, if the people are sufficiently steadfast in their determination. Continued taxation is implied, but on nothing the scale that war has demanded. How much in earnest is the public in desiring the realization of the points outlined in this charter?

A mother, discovering her small daughter washing the kitten with soap and water, exclaimed:
"Oh Betty, darling, I don't think the mother pussy would like her kitty washed like that."
"But, mother, I really can't lick it."

"We'll hold your place"

IN EVERY city, town and village throughout Canada today there are gaps where once were young men. They heard a call and put on navy blue, khaki, horizon blue, and they have gone, answering a call . . .

They are missed—missed not only in their homes but also in the business places which once they filled.

They have gone from every institution in Canada; but from none more than from the chartered banks. There is hardly a branch office from coast to coast which is not today the poorer—and the prouder—for those who thus laid down their pens.

But every branch manager, as he shook parting hands, had this consolation: he could say, "We'll hold your place. It will be waiting for you when you come back. That is a pledge."

So it is the part of those who remain to serve their country in such a way that the promise may be kept: "We'll hold your place."

There were 14,433 single and married men from 18 to 45 years of age employed by the Chartered Banks at the outbreak of war. 5,053—or 35% of them had joined the armed forces by October 31st, 1942; 1,243 others who joined bank staffs since war began have also enlisted.

MORE BIG UNITS FOR MUNICIPAL DISTRICTS

Maynard Faces Criticism On Policy Of Expanding Large Units

Severe criticism of the Provincial Government in this field has been forth coming from municipal men throughout the Province.

Members of the executive label the manner in which the change has proceeded as being undemocratic, and advance the argument that the move should have been made only after a plebiscite had been taken.

Hon. L. Maynard minister of Municipal affairs said the general welfare of a given locality is the primary purpose of any responsible government.

The units already set up, he asserted would be given ample time to prove their own worth and no further move would be made to organize more of them until the end of the present year when more information would be forthcoming from those now re-organized.

In a lengthy question period following the minister's talk, J. M. Wheatley, association director, declared emphatically that his committee had never refused to work with the government. Rather, he said, "we were dismissed."

A number of the delegates from the larger units reported satisfaction with the way in which the change was working out, but several of those from other areas expressed the fear that a municipality that was in good shape was going to be asked to bear the load for poorer areas.

It is to discuss this question, as it affects M. D. Bow Valley that the meeting is being called Tuesday next in the Memorial Hall.

HELEN MAGILL

Assistant talks producer— Women's Interests— for the Prairie Region.

Miss Magill arranges for and produces the women's talks heard Wednesdays and Fridays over Station CBK, Watrous, and other stations of the Western network, at 5:15 p.m. CDT (4:15 p.m. MDT), and for the Wednesday afternoon period she is at present planning a series of special programmes for the Prairie homemaker to extend over a four months period.

Miss Magill was educated in Winnipeg Public Schools and graduated from the University of Manitoba. Before coming to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation she was employed in a newspaper reference library. She joined the Press and Information Service of CBC over two years ago and left last spring to become affiliated with the Talks Department.

She has been connected with women's organizations since her teens, when she was a particularly enthusiastic Girl Guide. During her university career she belonged to clubs and a sorority and after graduation to a women's voluntary service organization.

During her holiday last summer she visited several Western points and was very impressed with the work of the Western women's organizations.

"My friend," said the missionary, "are you travelling the straight and narrow path?"

In silence the man handed over his card. It read: "Signor Pallancio Tightrope Walker."

Big sister— I'm continually breaking into song this morning.
